The MGB's sea control (sic) in Poland has the mission of proteoting all material belonging to the Soviet state, as well as Soviet citizens who happen to be in the Polish coastal area. Typical items coming under this protection would be Soviet vessels in Polish harbors (which, as such, are exempt from WOP (Willitary Border Guard) and MO (Citizens Milital) control), Soviet storehouses and storage areas, and barracks and officers' quarters occupied by the Soviet military personnel. 2. There are at present three commands along the Polish coast belonging to the MGB's sea control. These are designated "W", "S", and "W". The staff of "Z", which is in Stozecin (Stettin), controls the coast between that city and Kolobrzes, (Kolberg). "S", the staff of Mich is in Gdynia, controls the coast between Kolobrzes and Gdansk (Danzig). "M", with its staff in Eiblag (Eibing), controls the coast between Galansk and the Soviet border. The total personnel strength of these three commands is about 2,000 men. 3. The MGB avoids openly involving itself with Polish property and the work of the WOP. Every MGB command, however, has a liaison officer attached to the nearest WOP command. Officially, this officer is charged with arranging for supplies to the MGB forces. In practice, the Soviet liaison officer is ephalved frequently to give direct orders to the WOP authorities concerning their work. Comment: the Editory District in Bydgoszcz.
